

PATRICK SEMPLE

Patrick Semple is a former Church of Ireland clergyman. Patrick has had two volumes of memoirs published, and two collections of poems. He was editor of 'A Parish Adult Education Handbook,' and ghost wrote 'That Could Never Be,' a memoir by Kevin Dalton. He has had short stories published and broadcast. His novel 'Transient Beings' and his travelogue 'Curious Cargo: Voyages to the West Indies, South and Central America and the Mediterranean' are both published in 2012.

Patrick teaches a creative writing course at the National University of Ireland Maynooth, Adult Education Department and for the last three years has done public readings of his work in Kempton, Bavaria.

He has a website at www.patricksemple.ie