

Biography of Peter Hancock

Peter Hancock's first book was Cornwall at War, published by Halsgrove in 2002. The Mining Heritage of Cornwall and West Devon appeared in 2008. Being instrumental in the design and construction of his own home, he also follows developments in modern architecture and environmental technology. He has compiled two books charting the changes to his home town of St Austell. When not writing he works as a teacher, and has produced three school text books. Other interests include classic cars, and he was a regular contributor to Triumph World magazine for a number of years.